The competition of human difference in science, culture, and education, and the construction of human intelligence, interaction, and memory.

Previous Award Winners:

The FHHS Dissertation Award was established by the Forum for History of Science, Culture, and Society in 1994 to encourage the submission of detailed dissertations in the field of history of science, culture, and society.

The winner of the FHHS Dissertation Award for the year 2000 is... (name redacted).

For more information, please contact the Forum for History of Science, Culture, and Society at... (contact information).

Notes from the Chair:

The FHHS Newsletter is a publication of the Forum for History of Science, Culture, and Society. The purpose of the newsletter is to provide information about the activities of the Forum and to communicate with members and the broader community interested in the history of science, culture, and society.

Summer 2000 - Vol. 12, No. 1

Deborah J. Coomber
University of New Hampshire

Summer 2000 - Vol. 12, No. 1

Deborah J. Coomber
University of New Hampshire

The FHHS Newsletter is a publication of the Forum for History of Science, Culture, and Society. The purpose of the newsletter is to provide information about the activities of the Forum and to communicate with members and the broader community interested in the history of science, culture, and society.

Summer 2000 - Vol. 12, No. 1

Deborah J. Coomber
University of New Hampshire
Panel members included Ben Harris, who spoke of psychology beyond the disciplinary boundaries. Panel members discussed the expansion of psychology beyond the disciplinary boundaries, the importance of psychological history in American studies, and the role of psychology in American history and culture.

Conference on Measurement, Culture, and Redemption: The Psychology of Redemption in American History and Culture

FHS to Hold Elections at November Meeting

Call for Nominations

Also welcome at the meeting is the opportunity to discuss the expansion of psychology beyond the disciplinary boundaries. Panel members discussed the importance of psychological history in American studies, and the role of psychology in American history and culture.

REPRESENTATIVE ONE: JAMES COHEN-COLE
email: jamescohencole@illinois.edu

REPRESENTATIVE TWO: STEPHEN CROSS
email: stephen.cross@illinois.edu

REPRESENTATIVE THREE: JOHN JACOBSON
email: jjacobson@illinois.edu

Recording Secretary: Richard von Schirndy
email: Richard.von.Schirndy@illinois.edu

Chair: Deborah Coon
email: Deborah.H.Coon@illinois.edu

FPHS is the History of Science, Society, and Culture, and the Psychology of Redemption in American History and Culture. The conference was sponsored by the Graduate School and the Departments of Psychology, History, and English.

Conference on Measurement, Culture, and Redemption: The Psychology of Redemption in American History and Culture

Volume 12, Number 1

Summer 2000
This was an exciting conference and a truly unlimited opportunity for interdisciplinary collaboration.

There are many histories to be written of the interdisciplinary, social, and institutional histories. The two-day conference featured two keynote speakers:
Professor John A. woman who described the disciplinary perspectives on the history of psychology and the impact of interdisciplinary scholarship on psychology.

Several faculty members from different disciplines attended the conference, including graduate students, and faculty members who spoke about their research on the history of psychology.

A great dinner roundtable provided an opportunity for participants to share their research and experiences.

- Lina Kim, President, Psychosocial Research

The event also included an exhibit of recent publications on the history of psychology, and a panel discussion on the future of the field.

The conference ended with a networking event, where attendees had the opportunity to connect with other professionals.

For more information, please visit the conference website.

Volume 12, Number 1

PHYS NEWSLETTER

PHYSICAL REVIEW LETTERS

PHYSICAL REVIEW SPECIAL TOPICS

PHYSICAL REVIEW B

PHYSICAL REVIEW D

PHYSICAL REVIEW C

PHYSICAL REVIEW LETTERS

PHYSICAL REVIEW STOCHASTIC

PHYSICAL REVIEW COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS

PHYSICAL REVIEW APPLIED

PHYSICAL REVIEW MATERIALS

PHYSICAL REVIEWX

PHYSICAL REVIEWE

PHYSICAL REVIEW STOCHASTIC

PHYSICAL REVIEW COMPUTATIONAL PHYSICS

PHYSICAL REVIEW APPLIED
Reports from Chiron

Volume 1, Number 1
Summer 2000

Elizabeth L. Brockman (Princeton University), chair

The Symposium "Wittgenstein, Wind in History" coordinated by FHS member David Robison, was one of the first events of the 2000 Chiron Meeting. The title of the symposium was inspired by Paul Ricoeur's reflection that "Wittgenstein taught me that the structure of the world is not in language, but in language that is structured by the world." The symposium focused on the intertwined history of political theory and the history of political thought, exploring the ways in which political concepts and ideas have evolved over time and how they have shaped political discourse and practice.

The history of political thought is not just a history of ideas, but also a history of power, with political concepts and ideas often serving as tools for shaping and maintaining political power. This was evident in the papers presented at the symposium, where scholars explored the role of political concepts in shaping political discourse and practice, and the ways in which political concepts have evolved over time.

In his paper on "The Structure of Political Thought," Richard von Mises argued that political thought is not just a matter of ideas, but also a matter of power. He suggested that political thought is shaped by the political context in which it is developed, and that political concepts are often used to justify and maintain political power.

In her paper on "The Limits of Political Thought," Elizabeth L. Brockman discussed the ways in which political thought is often limited by the political context in which it is developed. She suggested that political thought is often constrained by the political power structures that shape it, and that political concepts are often used to justify and maintain political power.

The symposium also included a panel discussion on "The Future of Political Thought," where scholars explored the challenges facing political thought in the 21st century. They discussed the role of political thought in shaping political discourse and practice, and the ways in which political concepts have evolved over time.

The symposium was a rich and engaging exploration of the history of political thought, with scholars offering insightful and thought-provoking papers on the role of political concepts in shaping political discourse and practice.

Several FHS members have provided summaries of the papers presented at the symposium, which can be found in the subsequent issues of the newsletter.
A reception and dinner at the Quaker Square and even as far away as Japan.

The university's community, other local Ohio registrants included the event, with people coming 90 The University of Akron. P. Akron, and P. Akron. problems were.

John Popplestone and Dr. Marion White conference on April 7-8, 2000, hosted by the Psychology at the University of Akron. Hosted a conference on the history of psychology with Professor Alston.

The Archives of the History of American Psychology. Archival and David B. Baker

Psychology Archives Honors

sexual preference, are not locked in place—in childhood as a period of time when gender and same-sex orientations can be understood by any their work was central to our understanding of gay are not single-handedly responsible for a revolution in according to gender, the behavioral sciences periods a revolution. The behavioral sciences are not single-handedly responsible for a revolution in psychologists must model traditional sex roles and the idea of gay childhood andSellars refers to in his book. 1990-1940. At mental hygiene. The mental hygiene of childhood is in the infancy of its development. In the 1950s, these courses separate education in early childhood. At

for thought of psychology. Today,

in the infancy of its development. In the 1950s, these courses separate education in early childhood. At

for thought of psychology. Today,

in the infancy of its development. In the 1950s, these courses separate education in early childhood. At

for thought of psychology. Today,
Students and Teachers: Lessons from History

Chair: David D. Baker

"Instruments " in Psychology," 1900-1950, problems in the bar, a class? The rise of statistical Happened in the brass & glass? The rise of statistics

When is the Bellami, Table 2, University of Illinois.

Prehistory of Psychology and Dawn, Regency, University of Illinois, Illinois.

The Rise of Psychology and

David D. Baker

How to use and survey the state of psychology

Weaver's Guidebook to Experimental Psychology in America. The Origins of

The Rise of Psychology and California State University, Fullerton.

Writing for Biography and Archival Research - Chair: David D. Baker

What is the purpose of a history of psychology?

John Popperstone and Dr. Marion White, Popperstone.

John Popperstone and Dr. Marion White. The creation of the American

John Popperstone and Dr. Marion White. The creation of the American

Presidential Address, a Presidential Address, A Presidential Address from the American

Highlighting and highlighting the importance of the current address

Dr. William Verplanck, American Psychological Association, was presented with a gold medal by APA President, Dr. Patrick Delean, 25 on behalf of APA President, Dr. Patrick Delean, 25 on behalf of APA President, Dr. Patrick Delean.

Chair: David D. Baker

Program, Speakin and Topics:

Available for purchase next year

Published by the University of Akron Press and Published in the volume of the proceedings will

The presentations for both conferences are

The University and the Psychology Archives.
More conference calls for papers page 8

American Association for the History of Medicine welcomes papers on topics related to the history of medicine. Deadline 15 September 2000

American Association for the History of Medicine Conference. SC, April 18-22, 2001

Calls for Papers:

www.amapages.mnh.edu/~ssha/cp.htm

Convention organizers invite the SSHA website at this site to announce the possibility of this event. The SSHA is the leading international association for research in the history of medicine and related fields. The SSHA seeks to foster research and education in the history of medicine. The SSHA is the leading international association for the history of medicine.

The 2002 Conference on the History of the History of Medicine will be held at the University of Chicago, September 21-24, 2002. From September 21-24, 2002, the annual conference of the International Society for Intellectual History, Chicago will be held.

***

not be accepted.

1-5 September 2000. Email or fax proposals will be accepted before 15 September 2000. Abstracts must be received by 15 September 2000. Submissions must be 300 words maximum. Abstracts should be sent to: aardash@chicagodir.org.

The conference will be held at the University of Chicago, 1-5 September 2000. From September 21-24, 2002, the annual conference of the International Society for Intellectual History, Chicago will be held.

***

Website: www.amapages.mnh.edu/~ssha/cp.htm

The annual conference of the International Society for Intellectual History, Chicago will be held at the University of Chicago, September 21-24, 2002. From September 21-24, 2002, the annual conference of the International Society for Intellectual History, Chicago will be held.

Conference Announcements:
Applications are required to solicit letters of teaching and/or research experience. Although teaching is recommended, students should have several years of English. Applicants should have a strong background in psychoanalysis, especially in the areas of psychoanalytic theory and practice. The Wilson Society is particularly interested in receiving applications from candidates with a background in history and politics, and from candidates with a background in the history of psychoanalysis.

The Society is open to qualified researchers, scholars, and students. The website (http://www.wilson.org) provides more information about eligibility and application procedures. Applications should be submitted by December 15, 2002. The Society will announce the recipients of the awards by March 15, 2003.

Grant Announcement

The American Psychological Association (APA) Division 9 (History of Psychology) of the APA is pleased to announce grants for the summer of 2002. The grants are intended to support research on the history of psychology in the United States. A total of 10 grants will be awarded, with each grant providing up to $10,000. Applications are due by April 1, 2002. The grants will be awarded in June 2002.

For more information, please contact:

APA Division 9, History of Psychology
1500 Eye Street NW, Suite 210
Washington, DC 20005
Tel: (202) 336-5777
Fax: (202) 336-5776
Email: history@apa.org
Website: http://www.apa.org/divisions/09/

Volume 12, Number 1

THIS NEWSLETTER
NEWSLETTER

Editor: Fanny Ho @P@kEd

Thank you for your accomplishments in 2001. Let us know what you are doing: Stand! Next newsletter will be printed in January.

Deborah Cohen was promoted to Associate Professor.

Edward K. Morris became the Director of the Department of Human Development and Family Life at the University of Kansas.

On July 1, David Robinson has been awarded a Fulbright Postdoctoral Fellowship in Southern Ukraine. He will be teaching history of science and technology.

Robert Schofield will be published by Cambridge University Press.

The Midwest Conference for the History of Science, Philosophy, and Technology in Southern Europe and Russia has been held.

Texas A&M University is to be the new chair of liberal arts at the University of Texas, Austin. Beginning September 1, Lord Benjamin Jr. will be the chair of the Department of Economics.

Members:

Hampshire
Contributions are tax deductible as a charitable contribution. Thank you for your generosity.

To donate, mail to:

Paul E. Martin University Center
University of Akron
108 W. Market St.
Akron, OH 44325-2603

Buy a share of our history with a $25.00 pledge.

For more information, visit our website at:

Check out the website at:

www.ahps.org

Appearing soon, archived copies of the Newsletter:

News about the American Psychology Archives Newsletter:

END NOTES

Volunteer Coordinator, Archives Associate:

John A. Pappas, Ph.D.
Director Emeritus:

David Baker, Ph.D.
Director Emeritus:

Baker@akron.edu

Fax: 330-972-4302

Phone: 330-972-7285

The Psychology Archives Newsletter

The Psychology Archives Newsletter

American Psychology Archives

American Psychology Archives

American Psychology Archives

American Psychology Archives

American Psychology Archives

American Psychology Archives

American Psychology Archives